He has no really a main work of art, but he is known for his painting style who looks like comics and 90s Fashion with a lot of blond women and zombie men. He conveys humanist messages with subtlety and humor, but he also conveys anti war and love messages through a lot of his art. He uses spray paint, stickers, posters and stencils. D*Face is his pseudonym because he painted a lot of faces in his career.

I chose this artist because he did not only paint in London but also all over the world, like in Tokyo or in Mexico, I like this variation of technique that he uses and his representation of love is very interesting.

Biography

Frank Shepard Fairey or Shepard Fairey, also known as Obey, was an American street artist, screen printer, muralist and illustrator, born February 15, 1970 in Charleston, South Carolina. Coming from the skateboard scene, he first made a name for himself thanks to the André the Giant Has a Posse sticker, which sparked the Obey Giant campaign.

Andre has a posse

Fairey's goal then is quantity, not quality. After printing and distributing thousands of André (André The Giant Has a posse) stickers, he wants André to be as familiar as any logo. I don't like publicity, so my method is to open people's eyes to the system by participating in the process. André is so ridiculous that there is nothing but the process. »
